Software Developer

I am a lifelong learner with a passion for technology. I began my journey by starting my own business at the age of 22, where I independently manage and operate a successful computer and cellphone repair shop. I have a strong aptitude for diagnosing and repairing computers, as well as troubleshooting complex technical issues. My hands-on experience in managing all aspects of a business, combined with my ability to learn new technologies quickly, makes me well-suited for a career in software development.
